Athena was originally built as a trans-Atlantic liner. In 1994 the vessel changed ownership and was virtually stripped to her hull, reconstructed at an amazing cost of US$150million and restored as a beautiful, premium rated contemporary cruise ship.

With a handsome profile and a traditional walk around deck Athena carries about 600 passengers and offers a wide selection of well-appointed public lounges and comfortable cabin accommodation spanning eight passenger decks serviced by two lifts.

Her enhanced facilities include two sitting dining in the impressive two sectioned Olissipo Restaurant with an alternative buffet dining facility in the Lotus Lounge. There is a choice of five comfortable lounges and bars, including the impressive Calypso Show lounge, a night club, cinema/auditorium, casino*, shopping boutique, and photo shop, library, internet café, card room, fitness centre with sauna and massage facilities, an outdoor swimming pool, and a beautiful marbled reception area.

*Not available on coastal/domestic cruises.

The majority of cabins enjoy a sea view and all 276 passenger cabins have private en-suite facilities with a bath and over head shower, television with in-house movies, fridge, hairdryer and personal safe. There is a selection of twin bedded and double bedded cabins, mini suites and balcony suites, with an added benefit of Jacuzzis.
